SMOKING SHRINKS MEN'S GENITALS, NEW STUDY REVEALS

By ANN VICTORIA
Weekly World News

OSLO, Norway — Bad news for guys who smoke: Cigarettes will shrink your genitals down to nothing!

Two brand-new studies, one out of Boston University, the other done here at Oslo University Medical School, reveal that smoking constricts blood vessels and restricts circulation to the pubic area. The lower blood flow drastically reduces the size of the male smoker's erection.

The Boston University study involved 300 men and found that there is evidence that smoking limits erection size dramatically — up to 30 percent in some cases.

The Oslo study went even further. It involved 248 men between the ages of 17 and 41 who had been smoking a minimum of five years. In the Oslo study, researchers estimated that some of the men's penises lost up to three inches of length and three-quarters of an inch in circumference.

The estimates were based on measurements of penile vein and artery diameter. The measurements were compared with those of the average non-smoker.

"The hardest thing to understand about our study is how much it surprised everyone," said Science Department head Dr. Wall Johansen, who conduct ed Oslo the research.

"Medical science has known for years that tobacco-related heart attacks occur because the cardiac muscle can't get enough blood. Strokes happen when the brain doesn't get enough blood.

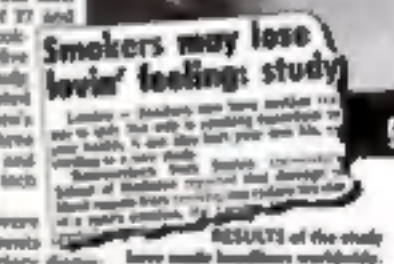
"Why does it shock people to learn that the same vessel constriction limits penis size?"

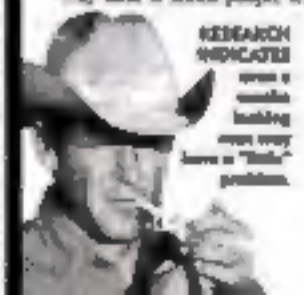
Anti-smoking activists worldwide have been quick to embrace the new research. Clive Bates, director of Action on Smoking and Health, reacting to the findings of the Boston University study said, "There may be people out there who don't care at all about the risk of getting cancer ... but who might be really upset if they thought it was interfering with their sex lives."

In Norway, Reiss' observation seems to be proving true.

Just days after the study's findings were released, cigarette sales dropped an amazing 17 percent.

"We don't know if the low sales will turn out to be a permanent economic shift or just a temporary, fear-based reaction to frightening news," said Alf Larsen, of the Norwegian consumer group Coalbox. he





How to identify & deal with jerks in the workplace!

Surrounded by jerks at work? You can learn to deal with them, say authors Rick Brinkman and Rick Kirschner — if you follow four simple tips for dealing with difficult co-workers.

By SUSAN NAUSON
Weekly World News

"The secret is being flexible enough to develop the behaviors you need to reach difficult people," says Brinkman, whose book is called Dealing With People You Can't Stand. "It has to do with context and situation."

The authors have come up with a list of the "most unwanted" personality types. Here they are, along with some suggestions for how to deal with them:

● The Know-It-All: Don't contradict this guy. He is always right and he will blame you if things go wrong.

● The No Person: He has one word in his vocabulary — "No!" He uses it to shoot down ideas and suggestions.

● The Maybe Person: He

● The Grenade: He's volatile and unpredictable, exploding into a tantrum about vaguely defined things that have nothing to do with the immediate problem.

● The Tank: He runs right over you if you get in his way. He's always angry and confrontational.

● The Sniper: This guy lowers smiling you look bad. He'll roll his eyes, crack a joke, make a rude comment — all designed to make himself look better than you.

To get along with these difficult behavior styles, you have to adopt one of four possible approaches:

You can do nothing, but you run the risk that frustration will mount and satisfaction will re-worth any gains you'll make by getting along with him.

If you understand why you can't walk away, you provide yourself with a reason to deal with a problem person. For example, if you need your job for another year until you get your son through college, it serves your interests to put up with a difficult boss for that time.

Finally, you can change your own behavior to get a new response from that prob-

Secret experiment confirms existence of Heaven and Hell!

By MICHAEL TODD / Weekly World News

Copyright © Weekly World News

A team of top scientists allowed themselves to be "killed" during a series of controlled experiments to determine if the soul continues to exist after the body ceases to function.

SCIENTISTS JOURNEY INTO THE AFTERLIFE!

Incredibly, reports now surfacing in Europe indicate that a mental state does live on after death. And the soul meets with anguish or bliss in settings amazingly similar to biblical descriptions of Heaven and Hell.

Sketchy French and German reports said the experiments were conducted on four volunteer scientists in a sealed wing of a medical clinic near Magdeburg, Germany, last month.

Details are lacking, but information provided by a scientist close to the experiment suggests that it succeeded beyond the research team's wildest dreams. In telephone conversations with colleagues in Europe, Dr. Yury Gruber said, "The subjects were frozen to death under very strict clinical conditions, thawed after 40 minutes, and in three cases revived. Two have responded positively to questions about an afterlife."

Austrian research biologist Franz Jaglin has not been in direct contact with the German clinic but he told the press that it is "obvious they have pushed the science of cryogenics — the freezing and thawing of human tissue — to its ultimate, terrifying limit."

Newspaper accounts based on interviews with German sources confirmed that only three of the four scientists survived the experiment.

One, a Yugoslavian biologist, refused nothing of the ordeal. The remaining survivors, a Russian woman scientist and a French psychiatrist, gave vivid, but different, descriptions of an afterlife.

The psychiatrist's experience was a chilling nightmare. According to the reports, he was hysterical and had to be sedated after he was revived. The Russian woman described a much different experience. She spoke of being overcome with a sense of beauty, joy and comfort. She also felt the presence of relatives. She was an atheist prior to the experiment but has since converted to Christianity.

The fourth subject, an Albanian scientist, died.

German officials will neither confirm nor deny that the experiment ever took place, and outraged scientists and clergymen around the world are demanding an official investigation into the experiment.

Hands can tell you what people are really thinking

. . . says psychologist!

By JUNE SAWYER / Weekly World News

A noted expert has come up with a handy way to figure out another person's frame of mind: Just observe the way your friend positions his hands during everyday conversation!

Here, according to psychologist Dr. Perry Bulling, are some of the most common hand positions you should look for and what they reveal:

• Clenched fists. This is a sure sign of inner anger. A person may be talking quietly and calmly, may even be smiling — but if the hands are clenched, watch out. He is seething and, literally, trying to get a grip on himself.

• Hands clasped tightly and held close to the body. This means a person is very uncomfortable and signifies withdrawal and, possibly, fear. See if the person will open up and reveal what's wrong.

• Hands palms up, with fingers interlaced. This is an unspoken plea for help. The person needs emotional support — and a word of encouragement or a friendly touch will work wonders.

• The fingers tapping each other or thumbs twirling. Both of these movements indicate agitation and anxiety. The person is mulling some problem — and perhaps you can provide the solution.

• Hands behind the head. This position indicates a relaxed, easygoing frame of mind. If you have bad news to deliver, now's the time to do it.

• A fist covered by an open hand. This is a clear warning that you're about to be zapped by a cutting remark or some information you didn't know. Take the punch out of the surprise by asking what's up.

• Hands hidden from sight. The person is being secretive — doesn't want you to know what's on his or her mind, at least for the moment.

• Hands on hips. This is the universal sign that the person feels "in charge." If you don't mind that attitude, fine — but if you do mind, set the matter straight right away.

FIST covered by an open hand is a warning sign.

CLASPED HANDS held close to the body can signify fear.

HOW TO 'RETIRE' WITHOUT QUITTING YOUR JOB

Exclusive new book lets you have your cake — & eat it too!

By JEFF MOORE | Weekly World News

You can retire at any age and still collect your full salary with tips from author Mark Johnston's blockbuster book On-the-Job Retirement — How to Quit Working Without Quitting Your Job!

"It's easier than you might think," said Johnston. "All you have to do is get your boss to reduce your workload until it's nonexistent. You'll still have to show up for work every day, but you'll be able to kick back and relax because you won't have anything to do.

"Sound too good to be true? Don't you believe it. You can retire on your job tomorrow — I guarantee it."

Here's the gist of the plan in Johnston's book:

● Get the goods on your boss or supervisor and make sure he knows it. If you know about a secret girlfriend or a bad gambling habit, for example, you can use that information to get out of work.

● Play dumb. Whenever you get a work assignment, ask stupid questions from the get-go. As the assignment progresses, keep asking co-workers and your boss for clarifications and additional instructions. They'll soon realize that it's harder to give work to you than to do it themselves.

● Play dead. When anyone tries to get you to work, leer them out for a minute or two and then say, "Huh?"

— & fool the boss into giving you full pay!

They'll quickly get frustrated and avoid approaching you about anything — including work.

● Eat breakfast and lunch at your desk — and take your lunch hour to boot.

It's a good idea to take the hour at an unconventional time, such as 1:30 or 2 o'clock, and stretch it at every opportunity.

Before you know it, the boss won't know when to catch you at your desk. Not only that, he'll stop trying.

● Let low-profile employees do the boss's share of the work in any office because they're easy to collar. If you do low, you'll be overlooked for assignments while the showboats do their work — and your work, too.

● Go slow. There's no substitute for sluggishness when it comes to getting out of work.

"I want everyone to know that this plan is not without risk," said Johnston, who was a business consultant in New York before becoming a full-time writer.

"You've got to be subtle as you begin your on-the-job retirement. After all, if you're too obvious, you could be fired."

Zoo officials hope Viagra will turn dud gorilla into a superstud!

SYDNEY, Australia — Barty Samson the gorilla is 400 pounds of pure muscle — but as a stud, he's a dud. Frustrated zoo officials here say the big ape refuses to respond to the charms of any of the five females in his pen — so they're planning to give him Viagra to pump up his libido!

"We're hoping that a heavy dose of the anti-impotence drug will put Samson in a romantic mood," said zoo spokesman Edward Brought.

Samson's companions Pam-Pam, Betty, Pokey, Ethel and Toko have been trying every trick in the book to awaken the hairy hunk's sexual desire.

"They try to attract his attention, bringing him gifts such as food, giving him come-hither looks and even assuming the traditional courtship posture, but Samson simply shows no interest," said Brought. "When they pester him, he just goes up in his tree house and sleeps."

Although scientists aren't certain why, many species are often reluctant to mate in captivity. This presents a special problem when the species is endangered, as is the lowland gorilla.

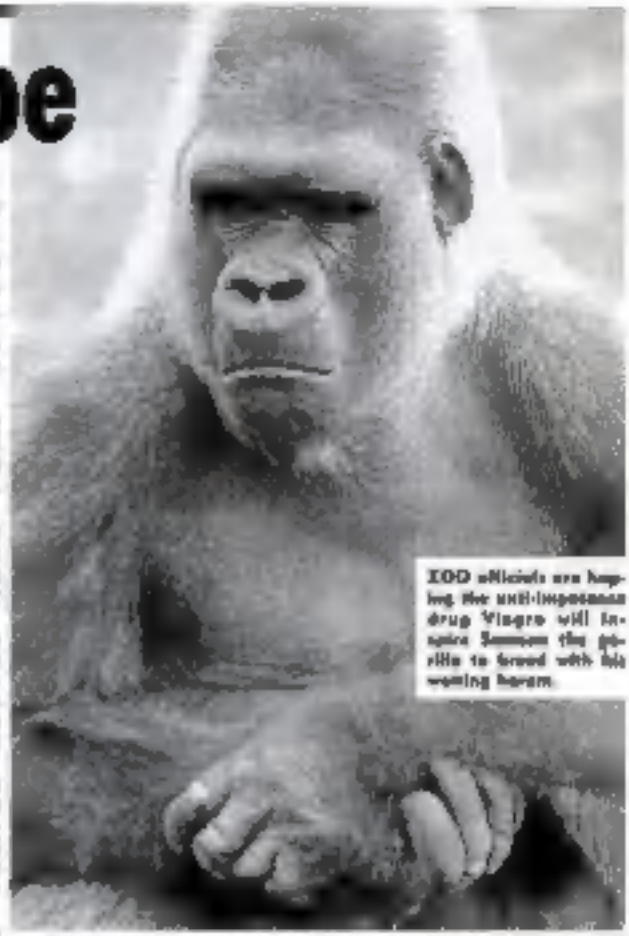
Twenty-eight-year-old Samson, who was raised in America, was purchased for a whopping $13,000 six months ago by zoo officials here. They had hoped to use him to breed with at least one of their females — but lustful, picky Samson has turned his nose up at his entire hair-covered harem.

"We tried everything we could to jump-start his sex drive — putting him in private quarters with each of the females, feeding him natural aphrodisiacs. But nothing worked," said the spokesman.

Now officials are convinced that Viagra — which has restored the sexual prowess of thousands of human males — can make Samson eager for monkey business. "Apes and humans share virtually identical 'plumbing' down there," explained Brought.

"There's no reason why the pills shouldn't work with Samson.

"Then his only problem will be choosing which of the ladies to take as a mate!"



ZOO officials are hoping the anti-impotence drug Viagra will inspire Samson the gorilla to breed with his waiting harem.

ALABAMA FAMILY WHO

Life on Castro's island was no piece of cake!

By MARCIE MANN / Weekly World News

MIAMI — Jobless Junior Beltin and his family of two rode a makeshift raft to Cuba in 1994 in the hope of finding a better life under Communism.

But late last month they returned to the U.S. on the same raft — because the Cubans made Beltin cut sugar cane and laughed in his face when he told them he had a bad back and wanted welfare checks and food stamps.

"I'll never say anything bad about America again," said Beltin, 40. "America is my country.

"Where else can you get money, medical care, housing and everything else you need for free? Not in Cuba — they make you work for everything like you're some kind of slave.

"And if you ask for anything extra, they laugh in your face. You don't get nothing for nothing down there.

"America is the greatest country in the world."

Beltin, his wife Ruby, and their 9-year-old son Billy first made international headlines on Nov. 28, 1994.

That's when they pushed their makeshift raft into the surf at Orange Beach, Ala., bound for what Beltin called "a new and wonderful life in Cuba."

At the time, he told reporters that he was fed up with the United States because he couldn't find work and was forced to accept government assistance.

He went on to say: "I think all those Cuban raft people are crazy to come here where all they have to look forward to is welfare. I've been looking for a job as hard as I can and haven't turned up anything for seven years. I figure if we live in Cuba at least I can provide for my family. We may be just as poor over there but we won't be taking handouts from the government."

WEEKLY WORLD NEWS reported the Beltins' story in the Dec. 27, 1994, issue.

As it turned out, Beltin, who sailed to Cuba because he couldn't afford air fare, was right.

Even though Cuban authorities welcomed the family with open arms, they weren't about to give them anything but. Beltin said, "a hole-in-the-wall apartment, a ration of moldy food I didn't even like and backbreaking jobs.

"I hadn't even gotten the sun out of my hair when they dragged me out to the fields and told me to start cutting sugar cane like a fool.

"And all we got to show for it was some food and an apartment. It wasn't anything like I thought it would be.

"To make things worse, my back was killing me. But the Cubans don't know what back pain is.

"They made me work no matter what. I tried to explain what the problem was and explained that in the United States they have government assistance for injured people like me.

"They thought that was real funny. Then they told me I wasn't cutting enough cane."

The first thing Beltin did when he got back to the States was apply for the assistance the Cubans refused to give him.

He's now, as he puts it, "back on Easy Street, with enough welfare and food stamps to be comfortable for the rest of my life.

"If I hear anybody say anything bad about America I'll tell them about Cuba," he added. "We had to work our tails off down there — we didn't know how good we had it."

Beltin and his family set sail from Cuba on August 9 and arrived in Miami 11 days later, on August 20. "I thought they would take us to meet Fidel Castro and put us up in a real nice place.

"After all, we were Americans and they could have gotten all kinds of publicity showing us off.

"But no. They treated us like they treat everybody else. It was the shabbiest thing I've ever seen."

Convinced that the Cubans would eventually see the light, Beltin decided to tough it out. "But our lives were miserable," he said. "They put my wife to work in a day-care center three hours a day and had little Billy in school almost every day.

"I was working in the fields two or three days a week. Shoot, they would have had me out there more than that if there had been more jobs to go around.

"They've got this idea that everybody has to work, even if it's only part-time. So there I was, cutting sugar cane like a fool.

'We had to work our tails off down there — we didn't know how good the welfare life was!'

DOCTOR SHORTAGE SENDING SICK FOLKS TO VETERINARIANS

CHICAGO — The medical crisis in this country will [redacted] be so severe, an expert says, that millions of people will be standing in line behind dogs and cats — waiting for veterinarians to treat their ailments!

Already the shortage of doctors in [redacted] America in the HMO mess has closed clinics and left millions of people with no medical care except for veterinarians, according to Nick Cooper, head of Americans for Better Health Care. The crisis threatens to get worse with each passing month [redacted] quit practicing to avoid astronomical malpractice insurance

"There's going to come a time when half of rural Americans will be dependent on vets for medical care," says Cooper.

"They'll be vying for appointments with vets, for Pete's sake. Imagine what it's going to feel like to walk into a doctor's office and be told 'You'll have to wait. The turtle was here first.'"

Veterinarians perform dazzling medical procedures, physical problems like heart ailments and liver malfunctions, diseases, broken bones and countless other complaints.

They perform surgery and regularly prescribe medications for their animal clients that can also be used by humans.

Cooper says the shift from animal to human practice wouldn't be difficult for the average competent vet — and will probably become necessary as health care for people becomes harder and harder to come by. But the switch won't bode well for the future of health care in America, the health activist says.

Nick Cooper

"Within 10 years, many of us can expect to get antibiotics from our vets instead of our physicians," Cooper says. "We can expect emergency treatment for burns, cuts and broken bones at the vet's office. We will even be making appointments for minor surgery with our vets, because the doctors will be so busy treating patients with major health problems they won't have time to take care of everyday medical needs.

"Needless to say, if things get to this [redacted] too busy — and too expensive — to treat them."

Cooper said there are several ways to head off the doctor shortage, including laws reducing the amount of money physicians can lose in malpractice suits and forcing universities to provide free education to prospective med students.

Q Please settle this bet between me and the office boss: Is it true that now that Murder Brown is off the air the star [illegible] will be taking a job as a reporter in real life for Al Minutes. I explained to him no way, because she's just an actress from a sitcom. Who's right?

— Hugh F., Merrimack, N.H.

A Sorry, but look over your cash! Journalists CBS not work somehow figure that Candice's experience as a reporter on a fictitious news show qualifies her for a slot on the established, decades-old news program.

Now that she is no longer doing Murphy Brown, it dawned on me that she may want to do a story or two on the longtime Al Minutes correspondent Mike Wallace. Hopefully reveal "I hope we make the determination that there is a story worth her doing, we'll give her a chance to do it and we'll see how she does."

As I was watching the movie, I couldn't take my eyes off his cranium. Exactly what was that between his ears?

— Greta S., Annapolis, Md.

GO FOR IT, GALS! Ever After star Dougray Scott has the right stuff in tights.

A It's a little bag known as a codpiece that was used to adorn the front of a man's tights in Renaissance times and hold his naughty bits.

Though the American grabbing aficionados look best, they're not all that comfortable, according to Dougray. "I'd never worn a codpiece before, and I don't think I will

MICROWAVE OVENS EXPLODING LIKE MINI A-BOMBS IN CHINA!

By JASON LYCANS
Weekly World News

Miniature "nuclear" mishaps have been occurring all over China — thanks to faulty microwave ovens that are blowing up like pint-sized atomic bombs!

The incidents are even accompanied by little mushroom clouds that rise up to 30 feet above the explosions. There have been 90,000 reported deaths blamed on the shoddy appliances — but the head of a Chinese consumers' group says the actual fatality figure is much higher than that.

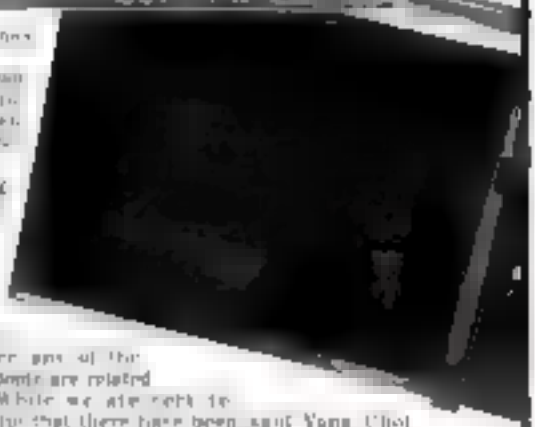
"The Chinese manufacturers shop the finest microwave ovens in countries like the United States and sell the faulty ones here in their own country," said Ling Hui Chiang.

"This is criminal behavior at the highest degree."

Ironically, microwave ovens are considered a luxury item in China and very few families can afford them. The frequent explosions were first reported in a Chinese newspaper.

90,000 people have died while using the shoddy appliances!

WHEN the defective microwaves explode, they send mushroom clouds 30 feet into the air



Warning to heart patients: Hot showers can kill you!

Long hot showers can be bad for heart patients — but air-conditioning will actually reduce symptoms of heart trouble, doctors reveal.

By MICHAEL ANDREWS
Weekly World News

In a hot, humid atmosphere, the heart has to work a lot harder and the added stress may be fatal for people with heart problems.

Air-conditioning actually reduces the work of the heart.

The experts offer the following tips on climate control to avoid putting extra strain on heart patients:

- Avoid both saunas and Turkish baths.
- Don't use very hot water if you do the dishes by hand. Even partial exposure of the body to different temperatures will affect the heart rate.
- Don't plunge into ice-cold water to cool off in some people this may cause coronary arteries to undergo spasms.
- Eat and drink cold foods and beverages for some relief during hot, humid weather.
- Use a dehumidifier if you live in a muggy area.
- Use a fan for cooling if you can't afford air-conditioning.

U.S. WEATHER FORECASTERS PREDICT . . .

NEWS FLASH!

COLDEST WINTER SINCE '78!

Twenty years ago, Americans suffered through [redacted] of the worst deep freezes in our history . . . prepare for another record breaker, warn experts!

By GEORGE SANFORD

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Weather Service is putting the final touches on its annual winter forecast — and the not-yet-released document warns of an unprecedented deep freeze that could paralyze most of the nation!

All signs indicate that the coming winter season will be the coldest since the record-setting "super winter" back in 1978.

The alarming forecast will not officially be made available to the public for weeks, but Weekly World News sources have obtained an advance copy.

Here, exclusively for our readers is what the government weather experts say is in store for the bone-chilling months ahead:

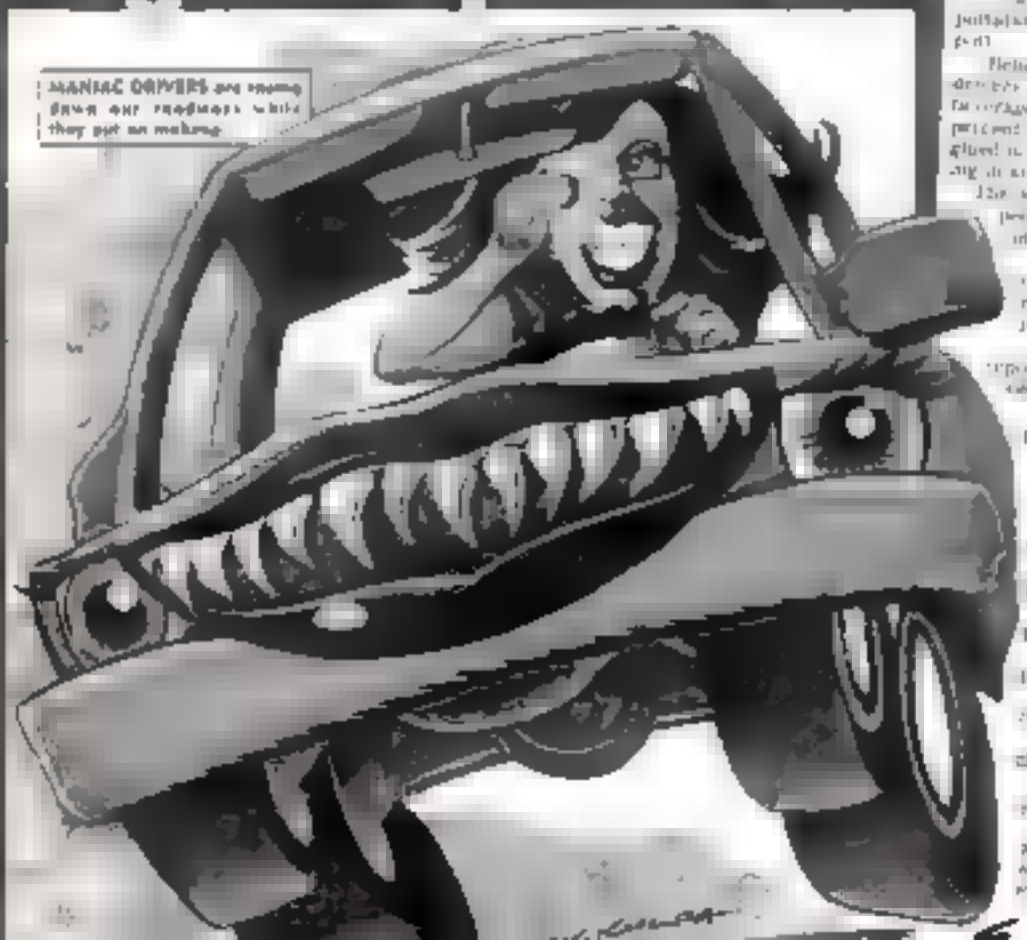
[redacted] lunatic drivers [redacted] clip their toenails at 70 m[redacted].h., says [redacted] study!

America is on a highway to Hell!



According to a shocking new report from the Federal Department of Transportation, the bozo barreling toward you at 70 m.p.h. is probably reading a racy novel, writing a letter to his lawyer — or maybe even clipping his toenails!

And the driver zipping along beside you could well be changing her baby's diaper, shining her shoes or watching her favorite program on TV.

"The fact is when you're cruising along and there and our lives are on the line, most of us aren't paying a damn bit of attention to what we're doing," said a traffic psychiatrist who is familiar with the report.

Believe it or not, a typical person of [redacted] drivers admit they dabble in cosmetics while they're driving and 22 percent have set aside TV's and stereos in the street while they're driving down the road and out of traffic.

The study found that while motorists should have eyes trained on the road, they're really:

- Using the rearview mirror to put on makeup, pluck eyebrows or brush their hair — 43 percent.
- Reading books, billboards, reports or newspapers — 67 percent.
- Dialing the phone — 56 percent.
- Shaving — 33 percent.
- Changing the baby's diapers — 29 percent.
- Writing notes, letters or reports — 20 percent.
- Doing homework — 20 percent.
- Clipping fingernails — 22 percent.
- Kissing or fondling a partner — 20 percent.
- Shining shoes — 18 per cent.
- Doing crossword puzzles — 33 percent.
- Snipping toenails — 17 percent.

Get a $5 baby at the world's most bizarre sperm bank

...or pay $15,000 for a little genius!

BIG BUCKS babies are what some moms demand from the special sperm bank — but they also get one big shot to the wallet for a measly $5

AMERICANA, Brazil — The world's most unusual sperm bank charges $5 to $15,000 to make women pregnant, depending on whether they want the father to be an artist, a genius, a musician — or the director of the sperm bank himself.

"They go to bed with me, they get a baby cheap," said Dr. Sergio Gomes. "If they want a genius or an artist, the price is higher. In these cases, the baby is conceived by artificial insemination. I'm the only prospective father who actually has sex with the women, and that's why I practically give my services away for free."

"There's nothing immoral about it," he added. "Some women are poor and couldn't afford to have a baby any other way."

In fact, Dr. Gomes' clinic provides potential customers with a list of "father types" and prices to choose from.

Here is part of that list, with prices in U.S. dollars:

- Street bum — $30
- Politician — $150
- Lawyer — $700
- Banker — $1,000
- Business executive — $3,500
- Athlete — $4,000
- Genius — $15,000

The Brazilian medical community has questioned the doctor's ethics but has yet to close him down.

Dr. Gomes indicated that as many as five women have gotten pregnant at the clinic since it opened 16 months ago — at least 10 of them on his special $5 plan.

One woman who took the doctor's cheapskate route had nothing but praise for him and his clinic. She says he gave her the one thing she's always wanted — a baby of her own.

"My husband couldn't give me a child and I didn't have enough money to pay for artificial insemination," she said, cuddling her 6-month-old daughter. "If not for Dr. Gomes, I don't know what I would have done. I was very desperate."

The sperm doctor says he views his clinic purely as a business venture.

"The way I see it, it's just supply and demand," he said. "People pay me to give them babies, and I do that. That's all there is to it."

FANATIC IRANIANS LOCK TOURIST IN STOCKS

. . . FOR NOT WEARING A SCARF ON HER HEAD!

TEHRAN — Shy librarian Hannah Vincent was visiting Iran with 44 other Australian tourists when wild-eyed Islamic police hauled her off a bus and locked her in stocks — because she wasn't wearing a scarf on her head!

By JOE BERGER
Weekly World News

Accusing the shaken lady of "dressing like a prostitute," cops kept horrified Hannah, 41, on display in a public square for 36 agonizing hours before Australian authorities finally managed to win her freedom.

"They let me out twice to use the bathroom, but the rest of the time I was kept shackled up there like an animal," the mortified mother of two told reporters. "People screamed by and spat on me and called me names — most of which I didn't understand, thank God.

"I was scared because they looked like they might stomp the platform and tear the whole thing down."

Humiliated Hannah — hair raising [illegible] at the girl [illegible] turn-of an Episcopalian church group, [illegible] from on August 28.

"We were told that Iran seemed unsafe and that this was a safe place for non-Moslems to visit, so we went. There was kind of an adventure." She still remembers orders received. "We were warned to dress modestly and wear a shawl or scarf over our heads in public and all the women in our group made a habit of doing that.

"But that Monday afternoon, we were riding in a very hot bus with no air-conditioning and I took off my shawl just to let a little breeze blow through [illegible] flowing [illegible] stopped at a light. Through [illegible] saw police look on the curbside suddenly spotted me, leave [illegible] and stormed onto the bus and headed our way. Five minutes later I was locked in stocks surrounded by people screaming insults at me at the top of their lungs. I've never been so miserable in my life."

And Hannah thought she'd [illegible] in these stocks of outraged Australian authorities hadn't threatened to call [illegible] imprisonment in the [illegible] of every woman in the free world — putting the blame on Iran's plans to bolster its faltering tourist trade.

"When they realized we had political muscle back home, every the grovel-creeps let me go," the Adelaide librarian said with a sigh. "They ditched me out of the country and ordered me never to come back.

"And I'll tell you, my going back there is something they don't have to worry about — because dead, those [illegible] are scary."

SECRETARY GUNS DOWN 5 CO-WORKERS — FOR PUTTING ICE DOWN HER PANTS!

FED-UP Inge Swink begged her bosses to stop her co-workers practical jokes. When they didn't do anything about it she did.

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands — A secretary who was sick and tired of being the butt of practical jokes got the last laugh — when she pulled out a revolver and gunned down five co-workers right there in the office!

By ALEX MORGAN

The four were in for some nasty surprises when Inge Swink walked in one of her fun-loving pals jammed a wad of ice down her pants! Seconds later she whipped the gun out of her desk and started firing.

"I was the toughest case I've ever had to prosecute," said Ilse Leeuwenkamp, who represented the victim.

"Nothing we've seen in court so far can be as strange as what we've just heard — how the office practical joker was gunned down."

When the bullets stopped flying, five people were dead or dying. Ilse Swink's boss, Hans Delahaye, was found on the floor clutching his chest, a victim of heart failure.

Two more of the victims died on the way to the hospital. Another, Dirk Hendriks, was shot in the head and died on the operating table.

Swink was also charged with the murder of Delahaye's wife, Anna, who died of a heart attack when she heard the shots.

Swink was still sitting at her desk when police arrived and arrested her. Co-workers later described how they were stunned by the carnage of the bloodied dead bodies all over the office.

Swink is set to be tried in early October and will likely spend the rest of her life in jail.

But her bosses and co-workers described her as the best practical joker in the office and a wealth of cheer.

"In our office we were always playing around and playing tricks on each other," Delahaye said on a recent show. "That very day we'd put one guy a bottle and that person set his alarm on fire.

"He not laughed about it — but later he was one of the people I killed."

Miss Swink told police she was especially disturbed when co-workers would pull her dress up in front of everyone.

"They used to call it dress-up day and hike up the dresses to all the women," she said.

"Everyone used to think it was real funny and some of the other women even laughed when it happened to them. But to me it was humiliating."

Miss Swink said she asked her co-workers to stop the pranks and repeatedly spoke to management about the problem. But when it continued she apparently decided to take matters into her own hands.

"It's still unbelievable that this happened," said Delahaye. "Things have really changed around the office. We Dracula had a taste for men!

Vlad the Impaler — the brutal, sadistic 15th-century Transylvanian ruler who became the basis for Bram Stoker's vampire Dracula — had sex with at least one man, experts now believe.

The historical Dracula (Vlad's nickname) and his kid brother Radu were sent in their youth to the court of the Turkish Sultan Murad. There Radu became a creature of the sexually kinky sort, according to vampire researchers Jeff Guinn and Andy Donato, authors of the upcoming book, "Vampires: The Blood Will Be Spilled," which claims that Dracula also terrorized the Balkans in sexually perverse ways.

FAT GALS WANTED!

Homosexuals are saving world from overpopulation, says expert!

SEXUALITY EXPERT Dr. Ira Wentworth

ATLANTA, Ga. — If it weren't for homosexuality, the world would be so overpopulated that millions of people would die every year from starvation, lack of shelter and widespread discontent.

That's the word from a respected scholar who says homosexuality dates back to the beginning of time and is the "natural way" to keep the world's population under control.

"Simple mathematics would tell you that if there were 5,000 extra heterosexual people alive and reproducing for the past 3,000 years, that would result in far at least a million additional people walking the Earth today," said Dr Ira Wentworth.

"When you look at the figures, it's reasonable to say there could be as many as 8 billion people on Earth today if homosexuality hadn't helped hold down the population."

Latest census figures estimate there are approximately 5.7 billion people on Earth. Experts agree the planet simply cannot support 6 billion people at the time.

"We would be looking at apocalyptic famine that would get progressively worse," Dr Wentworth said. "There are many middle-class families today who never worry about where their next meal is coming from," he said.

"But if you added 2.3 billion people to the planet, families like these would be among those fighting for every one more a day."

Dr Wentworth refused to take a moral stand on homosexuality.

"Making a judgement like that is none of my business and that's not why I conducted this research," he said. "As a scientist, I look at the facts and try to draw a conclusion. That's what I did in this case.

"And all the facts indicate the world would be dangerously overpopulated today if there hadn't been homosexuality throughout history."

There are hundreds of people who read this ad. Type one says, "Sounds great, but not for me. I could never do it." The next morning they're still looking at 40 years of the same low paying, boring dead-end job. Type two says "Well I'm not sure about this. But I think it's worth looking into. If I can keep my job at the same time, study at home, and it's not expensive, maybe I really can do it. After all, somebody is obviously doing it. Why can't it be me?"

We only want you to do one thing right now.
We want you to look into it.

We'll send you a Brochure—
- a free brochure
- a brochure with the facts
- a brochure with the options

After the brochure goes out to you, within days, we won't miss you. We won't even know where you stood on it. If you decide you're not interested, we won't bother you. There are enough people who are open minded to our programs, that we don't have to waste time hounding those who aren't.

So, to put it simply

As a Stratford student, you are guaranteed a course of studies which includes ALL of the following features:

MAN KILLED FOR SINGING OFF-KEY!

MANILA, Philippines —

I'm not a fruit or a nut — but I haven't had a date in years

ANNIE in Las Vegas

Dear Dotti, I read your column every week and can't get over how many lonely people write to you asking you how they can find a mate. I'm a 33-year-old woman and haven't gone out with a man since I was 22. Don't get me wrong, I'm not a lesbian or anything like that, I just find that life is a whole lot easier when you only have to look after yourself.

Does that make me crazy or perverted or sick? I don't believe so. But I'm curious to find out what you think. — Annie in Las Vegas

Dear Annie: If you're happy without a man, more power to you.

Personally, I couldn't get by without my guy. He's a pain in the butt sometimes but I still love him. In my book, that's what life is all about.

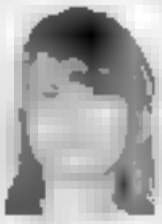
I'm lost without my missing dentures!

Dear Dotti: Please, please help me. I misplaced my lower dentures and can't afford a new set. I've been struggling to eat and speak for three weeks now. Please tell me where they are. — Larry in Dallas

Dear Larry: I had a hunch that you threw them in the trash. But I consulted Serena Sabah, who specializes in these matters, and she said you dropped them behind the clothes hamper in your bathroom. Next time you lose something, pinhead, write to her.

Should I report my fishy neighbor?

Dear Dotti: Something very strange is going on at my neighbor's house. Every night 20 or 30 people show up in fancy cars, park on her lawn and go inside the house. The shades are drawn so I can't see what's going on. But you can hear all kinds of screams and wails until midnight, when all the people get back in their cars and leave. What gives, Dotti? Do you think my neighbor is doing anything illegal? What should I do?



STEPHANIE in Kansas City

Dear Stephanie: What do you think you are — the neighborhood police? Keep your big fat nose out of other people's business. This is still America. And what goes on in the privacy of somebody's home is their concern alone.

I like girls who wear a ton of makeup!

Dear Dotti: Maybe you can help me with my worst problem. You see, I only like girls who wear a ton of makeup. It has nothing to do with the way they look. It's that I want them to kiss and hug me and smear it all over my face and shirt. I'm beginning to feel I might be perverted. Am I? — Carl in Indiana

CARL in Indiana

Dear Carl: You want to have weight? Quit eating like a pig. It's as simple as that.

Dear Dotti in Bedford: You're a pinhead!

Dear Peeved in Pittsburgh: Your boss is an ignorant blockhead and you can tell him I said so!

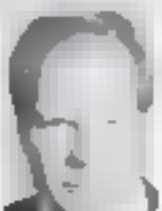
Dear Concerned Dad in Wyoming: I don't care what myths I don't care what your wife says — a young girl has no business dressing like Liberace!

Dear Stuck in Carson: If you hate the taste of mush, why don't you hold your tasty butt off the couch and move?

Dear Perky in Ohio: Because you're sick. You need to talk to your mother or a preacher or a mental health professional right away. Maybe they can help straighten you out before you start pulling madness on yourself.

That idiot Ed Anger really makes me mad!

Dear Dotti: I enjoy reading World News and I really love your column but that idiot Ed Anger is the pits. He treats everybody like they are nobody and acts like he's a god himself. Why did the NEWS ever hire a fascist pig like that? He is, without a doubt, the most ridiculous columnist I've ever read. — Mike in Westmoreland



MIKE in Westmoreland

Dear Mike: Who would you rather read every week — Andy Rooney? Give me a break!

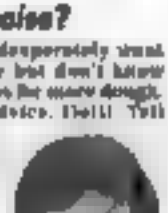
How [redacted] more different, Dotti?

Dear Dotti: [redacted]'s the difference between a lesbian and a dyke? — Curious in New York

Dear Curious: Women are smart to have what you think. — Dotti

How should I ask the boss for a raise?

Dear Dotti: I desperately want and need a raise but don't know how to ask my boss for more dough. Give me some advice, Dotti. Tell me how to approach my boss and get the bucks I need. — Stephen in Chicago



STEPHEN in Chicago

Dear Stephen: You say you want and need a raise but the big question is: do you DESERVE one? If you do march in to the boss's office and tell him why. If you don't, watch him by the water cooler and lie!

Here's how YOU can write DOTTI

Send her Bogotá-based Buick a letter, and a picture if possible — and let her spill it like it is. Write to Dear Dotti, c/o Weekly World News, 600 East Coast Ave., Lantana, Fla. 33464-9905. We'll forward your letters by Jan. 20th! Even though she has her hands full it would be impossible for Dotti to answer all of the thousands Family flees in terror by bleeding ghost!

FRIGHTENED mom Doris Lepore and her children Sum and Julia hugged old newspaper accounts of the 1991 murder

By BEATRICE DEXTER

OMAHA, Neb. — A terrified family fled their suburban home after they discovered the ghost of a murdered woman — pinned by a butcher knife to the wall of their attic.

Doris Lepore and her two children refuse to return to their rental home unless the specter of the veiled, bleeding woman is banished from the premises. They want their landlord to pay for an exorcism to clear the eerie spirit from the house.

"There's no way me or my kids are going to

NO LION! TIGERS AREN'T PUSSYCATS

A tiger might look like an overgrown house cat — but the two are as different as night and day!

● A tiger's fur coat is much thicker and coarser than your pet kitty's

● A tiger's eyes are like a human's. The pupils contract into a round shape. Household cats are more sensitive to sunlight and their pupils contract into vertipose. Use the letter "E" repeated over and over again.

● Domestic cats love to climb up trees. Unfortunately, they aren't as good at getting down because their claws all point in one direction. But tigers aren't climbers at all.

● Most pet cats are maneaters — clean, that is. A tiger doesn't mind getting dirty.

● Chances are pretty good that your lucky tales to get you by a tiger's cub is right. The tiger

TERRIFIED Lenny family has fled their Omaha home, leaving behind, after a horrifying encounter with the ghost of a murdered woman in their attic.

...ive with something that horrible," said Doris, 34, a divorced part-time bookkeeper.

"My children are having nightmares about that ghost.

"We want our landlord to move us out or get someone in to clear out that spook.

"We're not talking about Casper the Friendly Ghost here — this thing is gruesome and really, really frightening."

According to Doris, the children first encountered the ghost on a rainy day two months ago when they were playing in the attic. The screams of Sam, 10, and his sister Julie, 7, brought Doris running to the top floor, where she saw her kids cowering in terror in a dark corner of the loft.

The frantic children told Doris they'd seen a bleeding woman with a knife through her stomach in the attic, but that the specter had disappeared. The kids were so upset Doris had to sedate them and put them to bed.

"I didn't really believe them," Doris said, "but after that they refused to go in the attic again.

"I told them there was nothing there and I set an example by going up to the attic every now and then to prove it. I had almost convinced them it was in their imaginations.

"Then one afternoon I was up in the attic getting some old toys away when I saw something move out of the corner of my eye. I turned and there she was — this grotesque woman dressed in old-fashioned clothing.

"She was about 35 or so, wearing a cream-colored dress and a veil. There was blood all over her coming from this terrible wound where a butcher knife entered her stomach and pinned her to the wall."

Doris ran downstairs, called to her children and ran from the house. She and her family did not return to the house and are now living with relatives.

Recently a helpful reporter discovered old records showing that in 1961 there was a woman murdered by her jealous lover in Doris's house.

Doris is convinced that the dead woman's ghost is what she saw in her attic and she's trying to find an exorcist who can outlaw the ghost to leave.

"The poor thing is probably reliving its death over and over up there in the attic," Doris said.

"We'd be doing it a favor to send it on to the spirit world — and we'd be able to return to our home and live in peace."

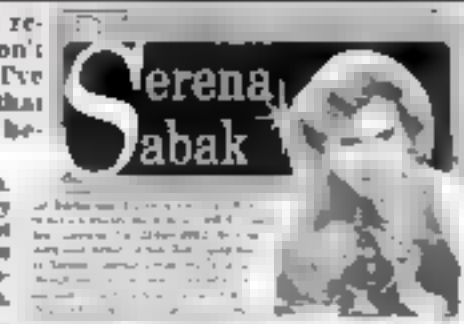
Am I pregnant with the Devil's child?

SARAH in Chicago

Dear Serena: I got pregnant recently, and even though I don't know who the father is for sure, I've got an awful feeling that the baby inside me belongs to the Devil.

I'm not an evil person. And I go to church every week. But I dream about Satan every night. And in my dreams he says the baby is his. What's going on, Serena? Please help me.
— Sarah in Chicago



Dear Sarah: The precious child inside you does not, I repeat, does not, belong to the Devil! The father is Bill!

Dear Serena: I was given up for adoption at birth and the agency lost all of my records during the process. As a result, I have always celebrated my birthday on March 1— the day I was adopted — even though I have no idea when I was really born. I have complete faith in your psychic abilities, Serena. Please help me.
— Puzzled in New Bedford

MAE in Carmel

Dear Puzzled: I'm happy to report that you were born at exactly 12:45 a.m. — on February 1st!

Dear Serena: I recently lost my wedding band, and I'm just sick about it. I've looked everywhere I can think of for the ring but I just can't seem to find it. My wife of 31 years will be heartbroken if she ever realizes that it's missing. Please look into your crystal ball, Serena, and tell me where it is. — Mae in Carmel

Dear Mae: You'll find your wedding band at the pawn shop next door to your apartment. See your name for details.

Dear Serena: After years of working in the fast food business, I have the opportunity to buy a farm in Scotland. My wife says I'm crazy because I've never been a farmer and I don't know anything about it! She also doesn't want to move to Scotland — but I think a change of scenery would be good for both of us. The farm seems like a good deal and I could probably subdivide a good bit of it later on to help offset the cost. What do you think? If we move over there, will we be happy and successful as farmers? — Undecided in Hawkinsville

Dear Undecided: Go ahead and buy it, but you don't have to move to Scotland if you don't want to. By the end of 1998 you can sell it to a real-estate developer for more than you paid for it. And if you hold it until 2007 you can quadruple your money.

Dear Serena: My doctor wants to start dating me, and I'm seriously considering it. But my sister says if I do this I'll end up breaking up with him and then lose a boyfriend and a doctor at the same time. She makes a good point — he's been our doctor for six years and I don't want to have to find another one if things don't work out for us romantically. What do you think I should do? — Elaine in Boston

ELAINE in Boston

Dear Elaine: Go ahead and go out with him. And I'll look forward to getting an invitation in your wedding next November.

PERSONAL TO . . .

Undecided in Cabool: You'll never find happiness in sales. Go to Hollywood — where you'll find starlets — instead!

Grateful in Colton: I never accept money for my counsel and advice. If you insist on giving me something, send a check to the American Cancer Society in my name.

Scared in Erie: My spell of protection is with you. You have nothing more to fear.

WHAT is your secret message from the Orient this week? It's easy and fun to decipher. Here's the key to decoding your message:

If the number of letters in your first name is 8 or less, subtract that number from 7. If there are more than 8 letters in your first name, subtract the total from 12.

Now take the result and find your key letter in the word ORIENT above. Starting at the upper left corner of the box below, check each one of your key letters as it appears from left to right. The letters below each of your key letters spell out a coded message for you.

THIS WEEK'S SIX LUCKIEST LOTTERY NUMBERS:

CLIP & SAVE ON YOUR WALLET

Weekly World News has purchased exclusive rights to the world's most powerful computer — and we use it to pick the six luckiest lottery numbers every week!

The latest-built computer, called Delphi Queen, has the ability to calculate which lottery numbers are most likely to come up each week, based on previous performance and established selection. The numbers are good for the week the NEWS is on the newsstand.

The computer uses all numbers selected as lottery winners across America over the past year to provide a statistical base for predicting future results. Above refers to those most recently selected numbers.

Using all available data, the computer picks the luckiest numbers for each week. In addition, each

Breaking the rules can help you land a new job, get a promotion or raise, meet Mr or Miss Right and solve just about any social or business problem declared Dr Gary Emery, author of the book Own Your Own Life.

By MICHAEL TODD

Here he lists some of the rules we all encounter in life — and tells how to break them creatively.

RULE #1 Always take things one step at a time.

INSTEAD Take shortcuts whenever possible. Decide what you want in life, then determine the quickest way to get it.

Suppose that a housewife wants to become a writer. Most people would start out by writing for their church newsletter or a local newspaper. But if you really think you can write, why not start out by trying to write a book?

RULE #2 Always go through "proper channels" to get what you want.

INSTEAD It's usually better to take the most direct path to what you want.

"If you want a raise, promotion or time off from work, for instance, go directly to the boss and let it be your enthusiasm who may present obstacles," said Dr Emery.

Be sure to inform the people you're discussing at your institutions about it, too.

RULE #3 Never let on that you don't understand something you've heard.

INSTEAD Keep asking a speaker to repeat something until you do understand it.

Instead of pretending to follow a conversation, speak up and say "Could you please fill me in as I was talking what you're saying?"

Tribe's noses grow out of their chins

Lima, Peru — An anthropologist at the University of Peru reports he's discovered a tribe of Indians in the Andes Mountains whose noses protrude from their chins.

Dr Hector Reyelo says the tribe's 300 people look perfectly normal in other ways.

The tribe members call themselves the "Yarnuti" or noseless people. "The chin's a very prominent feature," Reyelo said.

TRUMPET TRAGEDY

Years of playing his horn stretches musician's cheeks to his chest!

By PETER MACKLIN / Weekly World News

TRAGIC Michael Oliphant styled his trumpet playing after superstar musician Dizzy Gillespie

NEW ORLEANS — People point and stare at Michael Oliphant wherever he goes because his jowls droop to his chest — a deformity caused by years of straining to play the trumpet like his hero — Dizzie Gillespie.

"I was never much good at it but Lord knows how I love to blow that trumpet," said Oliphant, who used to earn a meager living playing for tourists in the French Quarter.

"Of course, I've paid a high price for doing what I love. Look at me. Look at my face.

"My only hope now is that dramatic surgery will make me normal again. But it isn't cheap. I'm really going to have to save my money to get the job done."

Oliphant's mind-numbing journey from musician to freak began in 1971. That's when he quit his boring janitor's job in a warehouse to pursue his dream of playing trumpet.

"I never made much money at it but I was doing what I wanted to do," he said. "I tried to play like jazz musician Dizzy Gillespie — remember him. How his cheeks puffed way out? That's what I looked like, really straining to play."

As the years passed, Oliphant noticed that his jowls were drooping. "I just figured it was part of the game," he said.

The situation went from bad to worse around 1978, he continued, when his jowls drooped below his jaw bones for the first time.

"I knew something was badly wrong but like most people, I just didn't want to admit it," he said. "I tried to cover it up with a beard for awhile but that thing itched like crazy.

"But I never once thought about getting rid of my trumpet. It just never entered my mind. But as my cheeks drooped more and more I didn't have any choice.

"By December of last year I was washed up. I couldn't blow my trumpet if I wanted to."

Since he stopped playing the trumpet, Oliphant has taken a job with an office clean up crew. If things go well he hopes to have the $12,000 he needs to have his face fixed about this time next year.

"I don't need much to live on, so I can save almost everything I earn," he said. "I'm counting the days until I can get that trumpet back up to my lips and blow some notes."

Amazingly enough, cosmetic surgeons say it can't be determined if musicians — and glass blowers — to suffer what has been called "drooping jowl syndrome."

"But I must say this case is unusually severe," one doctor said.

SAGGING Oliphant hopes to save enough money for cosmetic surgery to fix his stretched-out face

Pansy cavemen were afraid of their own shadows, says expert!

Our caveman ancestors were not fearless big-game hunters — they were timid wimps who ate the leftovers of animals that were killed by other beasts, reveals an expert.

"One myth about early man was that he was a ferocious hunter, even capable of bringing down big game, such as elephants," revealed anthropologist Lewis Binford.

"Instead, he was a scavenger of the discards left by predators. Today, he would be considered a wimp."

Bones and other evidence discovered at archaeological sites showed that cavemen would actually wait until predators had eaten their fill of freshly killed prey.

Then they'd drag the leftovers — usually head and leg bones — to their camp. In many cases explained Dr. Binford, tool marks on the bones were found on top of marks that were left by the teeth of the predators.

According to Dr. Binford, findings from a number of sites suggest our ancestors did not turn to the hunting of even moderate-size animals until just before our species, modern man, appeared. "The image of the so-called 'caveman' as a brave hunter appears to be totally off base," he said.

ELEPHANT THINKS HE'S A DOG!

By KELLY TUEHEE / Weekly World News

DALLAS, Texas — Butch the elephant barks, chases cars, chews shoes, knocks over garbage cans and raises his leg to tinkle — because he thinks he's a dog!

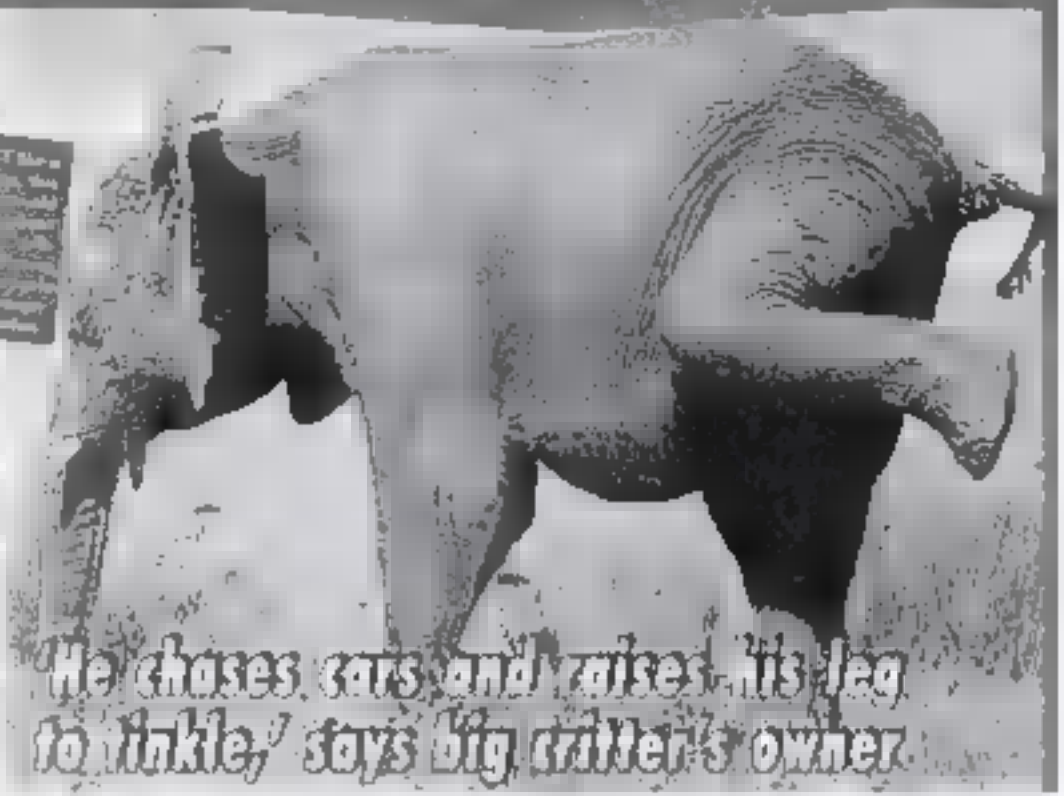
Owner John Carmichael says the 2,000 pound creature was raised with a pair of Great Danes that barks and acts just like them because its mother died while giving birth and he never let herself around other elephants much less seen how they are supposed to behave.

"He thinks he's one of a kind," said Carmichael.

He eats up fruits and nuts and does everything else a dog does. He likes to lick his master and if he can gives an occasional wet kiss.

He takes off after cats like a bloodhound and when a cat is up a tree he tries to get up there with it. Dogs who are used to chasing cats don't like it when the elephant does it.

The unusual behavior reportedly began in 1989 when he received a broken chain replacement gift from a circus. Carmichael thought he'd like a unique gift and not able to find a use for it.



"He chases cars and raises his leg to tinkle," says big critter's owner

BERLIN, Germany — Hundreds of phantom British bombers blitzed a German city late last month in a ghostly reenactment of a mission that took place during World War II, a leading researcher reports.

"It was a collision of past and present," [redacted] paranormal researcher Dr Hermann Spitz.

"The appearance of the bombers has been documented in extensive interviews with residents and sources within the German military.

"Don't ask me to explain it, but it appears that these planes flew from the past to the present through some kind of time warp."

Historians confirmed that the predawn ghost blitz of the unidentified city on August 24 coincided with a period British attack on the same town on August 24, 1944, said Dr Spitz.

And even though the German military has experienced news about the incident for security reasons, the report quoted highly placed sources as having said that jet fighters were scrambled when the British aircraft showed up on radar.

"The search for enemy planes was intensive but visual contact was never made. Even though images of the bombers hovered like ghosts on the region's radar screens. On the ground, civil defense agencies were alerted and citizens cowered in their homes. Witnesses reported that the drone of the bombers was deafening.

"Yet in the morning, no signs of any bombing damage were evident."

Researcher Mark Hasler, who has worked closely with Dr Spitz in his investigation of the incident, said reports that television and radio receivers picked up the voices of British pilots during the phantom raid have yet to be confirmed by authorities. "We've been told that many people heard voices yelling for bomb bricks to be dropped and for pilots to pivot during the phantom raid, veer away from searchlights an

Abe Lincoln was the only freak of nature to become President

PRESIDENT Lincoln was well-known for his long, gangly legs.

What made Abe Lincoln look the way he did — gaunt, angular and unnaturally tall?

Dr Harold Schwartz of the University of Southern California believes he knows the answer.

By DAVID MERSHAN
Weekly World News

Dr Schwartz is perhaps the world's leading authority on a genetic disorder known as Marfan's syndrome, which affects the body's connective tissue — and Dr Schwartz says Lincoln had Marfan's.

It is well-known that Lincoln's arms, legs, hands and feet were freakishly long, even for a man of his height. Lincoln himself once observed that there wasn't a lumberjack in Maine with longer arms than his.

From the waist of Lincoln's hands, sculptors have noted that the first joint in the middle finger is almost half an inch longer than that of most people's hands. Lincoln contemporaries often described the President's legs as "spider-like." Remarkably, that is the same phrase used on a doctor's chart of Marfan's syndrome by French physician Dr Bernard-Jean Marfan, for whom the disease is named.

GIANT HOROSCOPE

By SERENA SARAH
PSYCHIC ASTROLOGER TO THE RICH AND FAMOUS

for the week of September 2

ARIES
Mar 21 - Apr 19

This may be the week to reestablish some old friendships. Is the pursuit of an elusive goal. Consider devoting more effort to achievable objectives.

Your generosity could lead to trouble when someone you trust tries to take advantage. Examine the situation objectively and rely on your common sense to do the right thing.

Don't be afraid to seize all financial opportunities that may come your way.

TAURUS
Apr 20 - May 20

A creative urge could bring some changes into your life this week. If you follow your instincts instead of the crowd, your decisions and actions may be pleasantly surprised.

Don't let your sense of loyalty get in the way of your better judgment. Strive to be more objective about those around you.

Try to be flexible if possibilities suddenly appear in your path.

GEMINI
May 21 - June 20

Your love needs a boost, and it doesn't do you much good to keep hoping that someone will read your mind. Don't waste your time and energy on those who aren't worthy of you. Be sure to express your feelings openly and honestly.

Be aware of what's going on around you. Don't be afraid to ask questions if you're confused about something.

Don't be afraid to take a well-deserved weekend of pleasure. Invite friends over for a barbecue, or take your family on a picnic.

CANCER
June 21 - July 22

Making the best of a rotten situation is what sets the real achievers apart from the rest. And this ability may be tested this week by a close friend or relative.

Be prepared for some people that will leave you feeling numb. There appears to be a lot of [illegible] this week, so don't let it get you down.

Now's your chance to lift the spirits of a loved one. Be sure to express your feelings openly and honestly.

Stressful events could prove hazardous this weekend.

LEO
July 23 - Aug 22

An opportunity for a pleasant or financial nature arises this week. Remember, every change has its bad side. Weigh the good points against the bad before making a decision.

You may be able to settle a problem that has been causing you a great deal of anxiety. Don't let the praises go to your head. We all have our faults, but you don't have to be a [illegible].

Weekend travel proves hazardous this weekend.

VIRGO
Aug 23 - Sept 22

You may find that the pleasure of the weekend will be short-lived. Don't be deceived. Read the fine print in books and go slowly in your dealings.

Your sharp, careful eye spots a mistake that could cost someone dearly. You deserve the pat on the back you get for your attention.

The new love you've been looking for is nothing to sneer at. And you both could [illegible].

LIBRA
Sept 23 - Oct 22

Something said or put this week could provide the clue to a delightful financial future. Your creative juices are especially sharp now so make the best of the opportunity. Don't let this one pass you by.

Someone that you've helped in the past stands ready to aid you now. Don't be afraid to ask.

A loved friend would like to hear from you.

SCORPIO
Oct 23 - Nov 21

This is a good week to keep your mouth shut and let others do the talking. A quick tongue will get you into trouble. The quiet others [illegible] on the other hand appear to those who appreciate your silence.

A backstabbing pal may be trying to lead you down the garden path. Watch where you step.

[illegible] with problems [illegible]

SAGITTARIUS
Nov 22 - Dec 21

Different reasons men and women lose their temper!

In a fascinating new study, men report they get angry 31 percent more often than women do — and for different reasons.

By RACHEL SHERMAN
Weekly World News

Criticism, rejection, nonsense, embarrassment or disappointment most often cause women to get mad.

But men are more annoyed by people they consider poor role models, or situations, or bad habits we act to socially inappropriate ways.

Like women, men also get angry when criticized, but they react with [illegible]

Psychologist Mark Sun Douglas, who conducted the study, said men still don't want to blame others for their anger.

"They say such things as, 'I wouldn't have blown my top if their ignorant idiot hadn't been so careless,'" said Dr. Douglas.

[illegible] Dr. Douglas added that while women [illegible] depressed rather than angry.

"When they are dealt a blow to their ego and self-esteem, they often report feeling 'hurt,' while men report their reactions as 'anger.'

"Perhaps women have more anger inward, and that explains their hurt or depression rather than anger," said Dr. Douglas.

Dr. Lillian Rubin, Ph.D., author of the book Intimate Strangers, about male-female [illegible] relationships declared, "Dr. Douglas has hit the nail on the head in her study of how men and women differ in handling and expressing anger.

"Men use anger in place of feeling other emotions. It's not supposed to be manly for men to feel hurt, so they use anger as a cover for the expression of pain. They can express anger much more readily than they can feelings of pain, hurt or sadness. Women have a wider range of feelings available to them. They will feel hurt, and don't necessarily need to cover it up with anger."

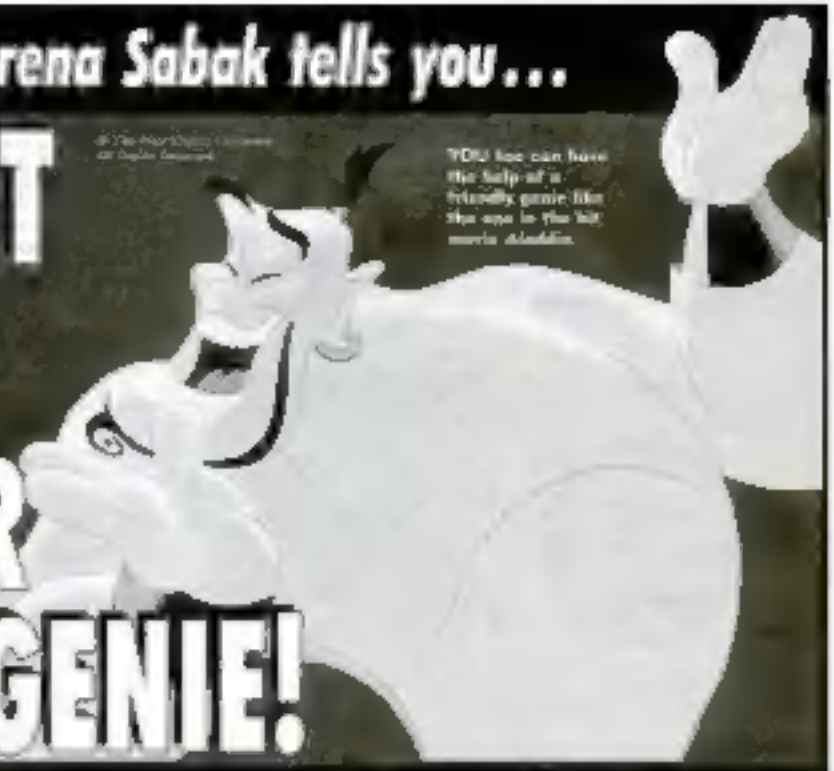
World-famous psychic Serena Sabak tells you...

HOW TO GET 3 WISHES FROM YOUR PERSONAL GENIE!



UNLEASH the power of your personal genie, astrologer and psychic Serena Sabak says.

By KELLY TURNER Weekly World News

Everybody has a personal genie and you can get three wishes from yours with simple tips developed by Weekly World News psychic and astrologer Serena Sabak!

You heard right. The genie that exists within each of us is ready, willing and able to grant you all the fame, wealth, love and luck you need. And all you have to do is ask for it.

"Getting in touch with your personal genie is easy," explained Serena. "And once you have his attention, he has no choice in the matter — he has to grant you three wishes.

"You can use your wishes to ask for anything you like. Power, cash, love, new cars or houses, world peace — the possibilities are literally endless.

"My five-point guide is based on years of psychic investigation and research," she added. "Follow it to the letter and you will be successful."

Serena's tips follow — but remember this: Once you get in touch with your genie, the first three things you wish for are apt to come true. It's a good idea to choose and concentrate your wishes first so you don't ask for — and get — the wrong things.

1. Take a short walk to clear your mind of thoughts, worries and cares of the day. This is imperative. Random thoughts will prevent you from getting in touch with your genie. If you find it hard to clear your mind, practice for several days.

2. Once you are able to clear your mind, return home and find a comfortable chair or bed where you can relax in solitude. Close your eyes. Focus your mind on the life force that exists within you. Repeat the word "genie" for several minutes. If you have prepared properly, you should receive a mental image of your personal genie.

Warning: Your genie is unique. You must not discuss his looks or appearance with anyone!

3. When your genie appears do not attempt to wish for anything or communicate with him in any way. Wait until the genie asks to assist you. He may or may not address you during his first "visit." If not, open your eyes and end the session. Try again in a day or two.

4. When your genie asks to assist you, keep your eyes closed and make one, two or three wishes in a strong, clear voice. You don't have to make all your wishes at once. In fact, you can make your three wishes, weeks, months or even years apart.

5. The wishes you make may or may not come true overnight. More often than not, you'll have to wait several weeks to see them come to pass. If that is the case, don't be discouraged. The genie within you grants all wishes. Sooner or later, you will get what you ask for.

Serena says: "Genies are a force for good in the world. Please use the power wisely."

Simple five-step plan can make you healthy and wealthy overnight!

HOUSTON, Texas — A 60-year-old man survived a heart attack at the wheel of a car going 40 m.p.h. — because his heroic dog Bitsy took over the driving and stopped the car!

By BEATRICE OKTER
Weekly World News

The miniature schnauzer climbed into the lap of ailing Jesus Martinez, put his paws on the steering wheel and pulled the 1977 Chevy onto the shoulder of the road, where it traveled nearly two yards before coming to a halt.

"It's the most amazing thing I've ever seen," said Dorothy Meehan, an eyewitness to the miracle pooch's lifesaving deed.

"That little doggie just wheeled over to the side of the road and steered that Chevy to a standstill. Then he started licking his master's face as if he were trying to wake the man up."

Martinez survived the heart attack and is now at home recovering. His little dog is getting first-class treatment from the man's friends and family.

According to Martinez and witnesses, the retired railroad worker and his pooch were on their way to visit friends when Martinez suddenly felt a stab of pain in his chest and began to feel sick and dizzy.

The last thing Martinez remembers is the sound of Bitsy barking furiously.

Witnesses say they saw Martinez' car jerk and swerve down the highway then regain control. Incredibly, they could see Bitsy standing on his hind legs in his master's lap, his front legs propped up on the steering wheel.

"The car was moving right along han said. "Then I saw the dog frantically pushing on the right side of the steering wheel, making the car turn.

"He steered the thing right onto the sandy shoulder of the road and ran it along there for quite a ways.

"I don't have any doubt the dog knew what it was doing. It was trying to protect its master by steering that car out of trouble. Fortunately, the man's foot slipped off the accelerator at some point — otherwise that poor pooch would have had to drive until the car ran out of gas!"

Mrs. Meehan said she ran to the car after it came to a stop and found Martinez lying unconscious with the dog licking his face. She called police and within minutes Martinez was on the way to a hospital.

Little boys are copying President's womanizing ways . . . warns child psychiatrist

Dr. Dorothy Arrenson

By ANN VICTORIA / Weekly World News

DAYTON, Ohio — Child psychologists and family therapists are seeing an alarming rise in the number of 5- and 6-year-old girls suffering severe stress — because their little boyfriends are two-timing them, giving too much time and attention to other girls!

"Most adults have no idea of the levels of pain little girls feel when they find their favorite little boy playmate sneaking away to spend time with other girls," said noted child psychiatrist Dr. Dorothy Arrenson.

"Kids are reports of adultery on the news — like the recent scandal involving President Bill Clinton. They may not understand the whole story, but little boys tend to emulate the President and little girls learn to relate strongly to the feelings suffered by more mature females whose husbands are unfaithful.

"And the more they hear about these things, the more they magnify the feelings in their own lives.

"Although these children don't have 'relationships' in the way we usually think of them, there are many of the same kinds of emotional interplay that are seen in teens and adults.

"When a female first grader or preschooler develops a 'crush' or a special bond of affection with a little boy and believes he has the same feelings for her, she tends to invest a lot of trust in him. She begins to expect him to have his lunch with her in the cafeteria, or walk with her to the bus stop after school.

"Little boys, however, seem to have a different mentality. They may enjoy the girl's company very much. But being more adventurous by nature, they tend to seek a wider variety of companions — both male and female.

"The problems begin when the girl, feeling neglected, starts demanding that the boy curtail his activities with other girls. She wants to work a puzzle or play a card game with another girl.

"When the first girl 'catches' him with the other girl, she feels deeply deceived and betrayed."

Dr. Arrenson said she has seen this pattern of behavior throughout her 16-year career. But she is concerned by the dramatic rise in the number of persons she's treating in recent years.

"But in these last two years, I'm seeing more and more of these kinds of cases."

PRESIDENT CLINTON'S unfaithfulness is inspiring children to follow in his footsteps.

Why are we offering this authentic

Statue Of The Virgin In A Dome Immersed In The Miraculous Water Of Lourdes For Only $5?

If you have one or more wishes you would like to come true quickly, read the following, before it's too late:

- Made by qualified craftsmen in Lourdes, France
- Glows in the dark!
- Accompanied by a certificate of authenticity stating that it is contained in a transparent dome filled with water taken from the Source of the Miraculous Water of Lourdes

During my last trip to Europe, I was amazed to see how many people had these statues of the Virgin. But what surprised me most was that this statue — made in Lourdes, France — is covered by a clear dome FILLED WITH THE MIRACULOUS HOLY WATERS OF LOURDES.

The first question that came to mind was: "Just why do so many people have this statue of the Virgin immersed in the Miraculous Waters of Lourdes?"

I immediately went to Lourdes to find out. What I discovered there is amazing.

What Does Lourdes Miraculous Water Have Marvelous powers

The Virgin has appeared 18 times in Lourdes. And so Lourdes is considered to be the prime location on earth for powerful spiritual forces — the place where the world's most miraculous and astounding miracles occur. There is no scientific explanation for the marvelous forces encountered in the waters flowing from the sacred source in the Cave of Miracles.

It is no surprise that for more than a century, one million pilgrims have been traveling annually to Lourdes to be close to these waters with their limitless powers. And some of these individuals even manage to bring back some of the Miraculous Water with them.

Wherever the Water goes, the beneficial powers of Lourdes follow

A non-practicing Catholic who possesses only a few drops of the water consistently states the positive changes and transformations that occur in all aspects of their lives: money, love, health, luck, fulfillment and happiness.

It is perhaps even more incredible that those fortunate enough to possess the statue of the Virgin immersed in the Miraculous Water of Lourdes are truly overjoyed. Thousands of testimonials are incontrovertible proof of these miracles.

For example, there are those who received money — and received it unexpectedly.

- Mrs. E.C., Hartford, Connecticut, won $5,000.00 shortly after receiving the Miraculous Water of Lourdes.
- Mrs. Suzanne N., Watford, received $10,000.00 in the same day she received the Virgin immersed in the Miraculous Water of Lourdes.
- Mrs. Jo Ann S., Montclair, California, got $13,000.00 shortly after receiving the Virgin immersed in the Miraculous Water of Lourdes.

Even thousand scientists who were skeptical at the start changed their tune after learning of the supernatural powers of the Miraculous Waters of Lourdes. Some went to Lourdes to study them. And while they could not explain all the miracles they observed, they had to admit there was no doubt that they existed. They were convinced that the Water of Lourdes possesses miraculous powers.

For the first time you can now receive this authentic statue of the Virgin covered in a dome filled with the Miraculous Waters of Lourdes

If you cannot travel to Lourdes, France, and to these Miraculous Waters... the Miraculous Waters of Lourdes can now come to you. And they can stay with you. Not just for a few days or a few weeks. But FOREVER. Our charges that wherever the Water goes, the limitless powers of Lourdes go with it.

Each statue of the Virgin is made in Lourdes and hand-painted by talented craftsmen. Each statue is then covered with a phosphorescent coating allowing it to make a glow in the dark. Then, these craftsmen present the statue in a clear protective dome filled with the Miraculous Water taken directly from the original source in the Cave of Miracles.

Consequently, it is no surprise the value of this statue and the Miraculous Water in which it is immersed is immeasurable. What's more, the source of Lourdes Water is small and the demand for its water is worldwide.

If you have any wishes you want to come true quickly, order your statue of the Virgin immersed in the Miraculous Water of Lourdes. Only $5 is requested per statue!

As president of the Lourdes Research Organization, I was able to bring some statues back with me on my return from Europe. To my knowledge, this is our first time — and perhaps the last — that we read the enclosed letter to the indicated address. We ask a mere $5 per statue to help cover their distribution costs (shipping and handling).
